THE SLEEPING PORTER

A twenty-five kilo load on his back spine double bent a six-mile climb up in the snows of winter naked bones, skeleton-like frail frame yet facing an uphill task he is challenging the mountain.

He is wearing a black cap dirty, sweat-stained his body is an abode of fleas and lice his mind very dull although it emits a sulphur-like sour smell but what a stout human figure!

Like a bird his heart is twittering, panting he is sweating and out of breath

A hut on the cliff his son shivering with cold woes of hunger
the mother searching for nettles and vines.

Beneath this hero of the mountain the proud conqueror of nature are the snow-clad peaks above
only the star-studded lid of night.
In this night
the porter is in deep slumber
"reigning over the rich kingdom of sleep.
